Who we are and what do we do?

The Children's Therapy Service team of Physiotherapists, Occupational Therapists and Speech and Language Therapists specialising in treating children with a variety of additional needs in different settings. Following assessment, your child's needs will be discussed with you and an agreed therapy plan devised. Some children may not require ongoing therapy and may be simply offered advice.

How will therapy be delivered?

Therapists work with parents, carers and or other professionals to promote a co-ordinated child and family centred service. This will ensure therapy aims become part of your child's daily routine. Therapy sessions will be used to assess your child's progress and to offer further advice. Your child will be seen in the most appropriate environment for their needs.

How much therapy will my child need?

If your child does require therapy following their assessment, an episode of care will be opened. The frequency and type of therapy intervention will depend upon the specific needs of your child. Therapy aims and treatment sessions will be agreed and reviewed as appropriate. Therapists work in episodes of care. The episode of care will be closed if goals and strategies are in place for your child and the next step is implementation by you at home and/or the setting your child attends. An episode of care may also be closed when your child has received therapy and a period of consolidation is necessary.

What do I need to do to help my child?

Your therapist will advise on strategies to help you in the management of your child at home. Therapist may also visit settings to offer advice and support as required. You will need to contact us with any changes in your child that require adjustment to the therapy plan.
